

The FCC SHOULD NOT implement any proposal that would lessen Indiana's Telephone Privacy law protections. Since its inception, our quality of life, especially in the evening hours has improved significantly, due to the now almost non-existent telemarketing calls. Prior to the law change, I received as many as 4 or 5 calls per day. Since the law went into effect, I believe I've only received one call. This has been a wonderful change, and I sincerely ask you to leave the provisions of the privacy law as-is.
